

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

ImageFIRST's Management Trainee Program through an Associate's Experience

King of Prussia, PA – April 5, 2016 – ImageFIRST, a leading supplier of healthcare laundry and linen rental, is encouraging interested parties to apply for the company's management trainee program.

This program is designed to groom future leaders through comprehensive training in major areas of the business including production, service, customer care and finance under the direction of a personal mentor. Once training is completed, the associate will be on fast track to the company's leadership team starting as a production or service supervisor with the intent to ultimately obtain a general manager position.

In order to illustrate how the process works, the company interviewed a currently enrolled associate. After working as a crisis counselor for a New Jersey hospital for some time, Richard Jones enrolled in ImageFIRST's management trainee program following his family's encouragement.

"I love working at ImageFIRST because everything I do is an opportunity to help me grow," said Jones. He went on to discuss his positive reception of the program, indicating that "as a management trainee at ImageFIRST, you can be sure that you're provided with all the right tools to develop, and grow as a future leader."

To be considered for the program, ImageFIRST asks that applicants possess a bachelor's degree, two or more years of work experience, full-time availability and strong leadership, writing, communication and organizational skills. Interested candidates may apply for the open ImageFIRST management trainee opportunity here.
